The University of Queensland Faculty of Medicine – Ochsner Clinical School Students!

Ochsner is proud to welcome the twelfth American cohort of The University of Queensland students to their third and fourth years of medical school at the Ochsner Clinical School. These students have recently completed their first two years of medical school at The University of Queensland Brisbane, Australia, and they will be the twelfth group of American students to graduate from this fully accredited program.

Dr. Alton Ochsner and his colleagues recognized that education was a critical element to retaining New Orleans' reputation as a center of medical excellence. That remains true today. Ochsner is committed to continuing our state's tradition of premier medical education. Working with our partners in Australia, we are educating bright minds from across the country. Training the future physicians here in Louisiana at the UQ Ochsner Clinical School is one of the most valuable things that we can do to cultivate and recruit the next generation of medical leaders.
